Mount Holly, July 13, 2007. As another Friday the 13th approaches, Mount Holly prepares for its Haunted Holly Ghost Tour. It is no wonder with all the superstitions that surround this day that the ghosts of Mount Holly feel it is their lucky day. All stops on the tour have been certified as haunted by South Jersey Ghost Research, whose investigations bring them to town equipped with ghost-detecting regalia. They have verified that reported things that go bump in the night are more than just loose floorboards. SJGR has identified historic Mount Holly as a "hotbed" of ghostly activity, with many homes and business deemed haunted.

This tour will begin with a presentation by Jamie Faith Eachus, Co-Director of South Jersey Ghost Research, a certified Angel Therapy Practitioner, Medium and Spiritual Teacher at 6 pm at Burlington County College Mount Holly Center located at 1 High Street. Mrs. Eachus, proprietor of The Ancient Healing Center in Southern New Jersey with an office in New Hope, Pa. conducts private Angel Healing and Mediumship sessions, Group Mediumships, as well as numerous workshops, seminars, and lectures helping people to connect with the angelic realm and their loved ones that have crossed over. In this informative lecture, Jamie will discuss mediumship, life after death, and communicating with our loved ones on the other side. Audience questions and even possible random audience readings will conclude this presentation. South Jersey Ghost Researchers will also have an on-going presentation throughout the evening at the Center.

Tickets are available for $10, $5 for children under 10 at the following locations: Red White and Brew, 33 High Street, The Bookery, 20 White St., and the Mount Holly Library, 307 High Street. Tours will be leaving every 15 minutes starting at 7 pm for those brave enough from Burlington County College Mount Holly Center, 1 High Street. Ghost tour adventurers can enjoy Mrs. Eachus' presentation, do some shopping in the haunted Mill Race Village, or have dinner at one of the many fine restaurants, two with ghostly patrons, located in Historic Downtown Mount Holly.

Main Street Mount Holly, part of a program sponsored by the National Trust for Historic Preservation and Main Street New Jersey, works to preserve, protect and enhance Mount Holly's Historic downtown.
