Mount Holly, NJ, 30 October, 2006 – Over the last three winters, you've probably seen the First Night® Burlington County (FNBC) Monkeys, Roosters, and Dogs. In celebration of the New Year, fiberglass animal sculptures, painted and embellished by local artists, have been displayed in and around downtown Mount Holly. Well, it's happening again, only this time it's pigs.

After spending some time with their sponsors, all the Oinkers will gather on 31 December for the eighth annual First Night® Burlington County, a substance-free New Year's Eve celebration of performing & visual arts that takes place in and among the historic civic buildings of downtown Mount Holly. For a single $10 Entry Button, attendees enjoy a wide variety of live music, comedy, art installations, street performers, and spectacular downtown fireworks at 9:30 & midnight. Buttons will be going on sale November 15, 2006 at all Commerce branches.
